Howcsong, February 10th, 1883.

The inquiry held on Wednesday as to the burning of the steamer Carisbrooks did not result in the discovery of the origin of the fire. The Court, however, found the master committed " a grave error in judgment "not making the signals of a fire on board "ship provided by the Harbour Regulations. " Had the proper signals been made assist-"ance would most probably have been sup-"plied by the several ships of war in port "and by the ships of the mercantile marine.

We are of opinion that, with the hand, there were, we think, on the whole fewer exception mentioned in paragraph three, there was less occasion for jubilation with some "the master, officers, and crew did all that at least of our Chinese friends owing to the losses "lay in their power for the preservation of arising out of the late land speculation. "the ship and passengers." The clause of the harbour regulations applying to the case is as follows :- " In case of fire occurring on board Bengal with six Chinese on board in bad condi-"any ship or vessel in the waters of the colony, " if at night, three lights shall be hoisted in a "vertical position at the highest masthead. "and a single light at the peak, and guns "shall be fired in quick succession until suf-"ficient assistance shall be rendered." Cantain THOMSETT, the President of the Court of Inquiry, said " he had seen certain remarks Tong King sing, Manager of the China Mer. Captain Scorr admits H.M. double-screw gnu-vessel Swift, Commanthat he did not comply with the regulations, der Collins, arrived here on Thursday from alleging as his reason that the signal gun would take some time to load, that it had never been used before, and that it was thought best to take the means that were quickest, and therefore rifles were fired. He also says that he would have had to get through the whole crowd of passengers to use the gun, is that Capt. Score had not actually present to his mind at the time the particular regulation applying to the circumstances, and he took the measures which first suggested themselves to his mind as being best calculated to meet the emergency. It could hardly be expected that with a fire raging on board his ship a captain would apend his time in looking up regulations, and it is hardly likely that any captain who is in one port to-day and in another to-morrow would have the regulations of each at his fingers' ends. We venture to say that had the fire occurred on any other ship the captain would have acted on the same principle as Captain Scorr, namely, attempting by the readiest means to make his distress known while at the same to the hoisting of lights, it is admitted that in the case of the Carisbrooks they could not have been seen from the Audacious, and therefore that point may be left out of consideration. It is unfortunate, how-or that they would do their duty unwillingly.

But as we have already said, we do not see that the firing of guns would have made much difference. Captain Thomserr says no one on the Audacious know of the fire

I was not present at the meeting convened arrange for the coming Athletic Sports, but if I had I am sure I could not have been more amused than I was upon reading the Daily Press report of the occasion, in which I see that "it was decided, after some discussion, to adopt a suggestion of Mr. Hazeland" to the effect that the an opium pipe from the room of a hawker in Ladies' Purse should be made the prize for the 100 yards race. Now, considering that the gentleman named was the winner of that race last year, and stands at the moment practically without an opponent for the same event this season I think the "suggestion" in question rivals even the proverbial encumber in coolness. But the joke does not end here. In previous years the winner of the "100 yards" has been penalised two yards, equally, on former occasions the "quarter mile" being for the Governor's Cup has always been open. The sapient conclave which met the other day has reversed this arrangement. I have no hesitation in saying that if the arrangement is carried out these two events will be uttorly devoid of that first essence in sporting matters—fairness. His Excallency and the Ladies have the issue in their own bands.

About half-past ten on the night of the Ist inst, the fire-bell commenced tolling at the Central Station, and it was soon discovered that the outbreak was in the French Concession. The police immediately turned out and harried towards the direction in which the reflection of the flames was seen. The fire proved to be at Pah-sin-jah, whore there are several caltle sheds and slaughter-houses constructed of wood and bamboo. It was amongst these that the fire broke out; although the flames burnt flercoly their spread was materially checked by the quantity of snow that had fallen during the day. The Mih-he-longs were first to arrive. They soon set to work and did good service by pulling down the adjoining buildings. As the sheds are so far in from the road and the approaches to them so narrow, it was not possible to bring the large engines to play on the flames. A hand one belonging to the French Gas Company was set to work with the least possible delay and two steady streams soon got the fire under. The damage enstained cannot be very great -- Daily 16th January. Very-little news of importance has been stiring here of late. A number of the residents are away in Mongolia, enjoying the cold weather and shooting. For the last ten or twelve days we have been having very mild, pleasant weather, after some very cold and windy days. To-day the wind is up again; and it is cold open I to suit every one. The amusement which scoms to attract all alike is skating. The rink is just double the size of the one last winter, and the colder winter gives us better ice. Once a week it is illuminated, and nearly all the community turn out to witness the feats of skill which various feet perform.
